NUMBER 43

The public debt of the United States was reduced over $14,000,000 during the month of April, making the total reduction for the ten months of the fiscal year about $120,000,000, or nearly double that of the corresponding months last year. It would have been greater but for the decreased internal revenue receipts, caused by the agitation of the whisky-tax question.

Sometimes when a man makes a fool of himself he becomes ashamed of his doings and begins to crawl from public notice. When Perry Belmont undertook to stir up Mr. Blaine by using gross language to him, he thought he was a little hero, but since public opinion has been heard from, Belmont wants his language expunged from the official record. It is hoped that his language will be preserved, so that his character as a blackguard may be officially recorded.

Colonel Robert Ingersoll delivered a lecture in Boston on Sunday night to an audience made up of 4,000 people. His subject was the theology of Talmage. It was a vigorous lecture as all of Colonel Ingersoll's lectures are vigorous, and in it he said a great many harsh things that the sensible part of the public will not applaud, and one of them was that if Christianity be true, Emerson was with Longfellow, Lincoln, Darwin and Ham. bled in hell, that night.

Congress has at last another colored member—John R. Lynch, of the Vicksburg, Mississippi, district. He should have taken his seat a long time ago, but fraud, the torch, the bludgeon, and the shot-gun, deprived him of his seat. The "Mississippi plan," was one of the most outrageous schemes to crush the will of the people ever inaugurated in the South. When Mr. Lynch demanded his seat, he presented a terrible indictment of Chalmers and his co-workers. General Chalmers was fairly beaten by a large majority. The reports show that out of 21,143 votes polled he received only 5,000. In some counties, the votes counted for him which were cast against him, numbered 5,000, and yet in the face of all this, Lynch beat Chalmers by 663. In Vicksburg, the city in which he has his home, showed its contempt for the man and his frauds by giving a clear majority of 1,052 against him. With all these solemn facts staring him in the face, he continued to hold his seat, and his party in Congress gave him its support.

A FEW TRIBUTES TO BELMONT.
The Rochester Democrat: Perry Belmont probably means well, but it is not safe for him to rattle around when Mr. Blaine is on the witness stand.

The Utica Herald: Jim Blaine is very much like a barbed wire fence—the more you run into him the worse you are off. For further particulars inquire of Belmont.

The Pittsburg Commercial: Mr. Perry Belmont, Congressman from New York City, may be a very expert polo player, but he is out of his element in a Congressional investigation trying to embarrass a witness like ex-Secretary Blaine.

The Cincinnati Enquirer: Every man who reaches for Blaine's scalp seems to be able only to bring Blaine into more prominent notice.

The Indianapolis News: Mr. Blaine might say with Sam Weller: "Is there any other gemmen wants to ask me a kvestyon?"

The Albany Journal: The "vulgarity" consisted in Belmont's indecent exposure of his fat wit. When pigmies wrestle with giants they must expect to get tripped.

The Boston Journal: The Hon. Perry Belmont, who undertook to badger Mr. Blaine, is a young lawyer, son of Belmont the banker, and if he lives till next December he will be thirty-one years old and a wiser man.

The Worcester Gazette: Mr. Belmont would seem to be an adept at many games, but it is likely Mr. Blaine can give him points on the one he is at present engaged in.

The Albany Express: The son of his father is assuredly a very clever person, but he must rise uncommonly early in the morning and comb his hair thoroughly before he measures swords with the brilliant ex-Secretary.

The Hartford Courant: Mr. Belmont plays a very good game of polo, but as a cross-examiner of Mr. Blaine he resembles the "Punkie" of the Adirondacks, irritating and persistent, but not dangerous.

The Philadelphia Press: "To permit a callow, self-sufficient young jackanapes like young Belmont to slobber around a subject of which he hasn't the slightest comprehension, might do in the dog-days with a shipper or some other congenially inconsequent nobody, but to permit a man of Mr. Blaine's status to be pestered by such a tattletale reflects no credit upon the committee procedure of the House.

Baltimore American: "When a youth of the size, years and experience of the late lamented Belmont so far forgets himself as to cross-examine one of the foremost citizens of the land—one who has had the esteem and regard of a majority of fifty millions of people before the now callows a blush to the cheek of those even who are of the same stripe in politics."

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA from Brazil. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The President has decided to put down the Indian outbreak in Arizona as soon as possible, and has so expressed himself to the Secretary of War, who has been instructed to take prompt and vigorous measures to that end. Orders have been issued for additional troops to proceed to the scene of the trouble and aid the troops in preventing further acts of violence and bringing the hostilities to speedy justice. These reinforcements will consist of the First Infantry, now in Texas; the Fourth Infantry, on the Union Railroad, Department of the Platte; Third Cavalry, also in the Department of the Platte; and part of the Ninth Cavalry in the Department of Missouri. The President is in earnest in the matter, and, in the words of a prominent army officer, intends to make a "clean sweep." The probabilities are the troops in Arizona and New Mexico will be united in one command under a brigadier general yet to be assigned to that duty.

CAPT. JACK'S DEATH.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Captain Jack, of the White River Utes, was killed to-day at Fort Waskohie, W. T. He was arrested on the 29th ult., and shortly after escaped to a tepee near by, where he secured a carbine and killed Sergeant Richard Casey, of the Third Cavalry. A mountain howitzer was then fired into the tepee, killing Jack instantly. Captain Jack was a notorious leader in the Thornburg and Meeker massacres, and was a very dangerously bad Indian.

HANLAN AND TRICKETT.

LONDON, May 1.—In the Hanlan-Trickett rowing match this morning, Hanlan won by four lengths, and with the greatest ease. The course was from Putney to Mortlake, and the stakes were £1,000.

It acts directly upon the stomach, liver and kidneys in a remarkable manner. ZOPESA from Brazil, is only appreciated by those who have tried it. Every bottle warranted to cure Dyspepsia. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

OBITUARY.

DELAVER, Wis., May 1.—This community was surprised to-day, to hear of the death of Mrs. Chaucer Parsons, of paralysis, whose husband died just one week ago of the same disease. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were among the first settlers of this town.

THREE WIVES TOO MANY.

LANCASTER, May 1.—James W. Clark, charged with an attempt to practice Mormonism outside of Utah, was placed in jail here last evening. So far as heard from, thus far, Clark has been the happy or unhappy possessor of four wives, three of whom are now living. His latest dip into marital felicity was taken the 17th of last month. The victim to Clark's carnal instincts was a girl named Davenport, whose parents live north of Boscobel, in this county. The marriage was celebrated at Muscoda, and from there the couple went to Dubuque, Clark's old stamping ground. James Davenport, brother of the girl, having learned of the bigamist's former responsibilities, started on his track, and Saturday the sheriff of the county proceeded to Dubuque and bagged his bird. The gay deceiver is a cripple, being obliged to go on crutches, and is a wandering violinist by profession. He is very quiet and has little to say, evidently recognizing his chances for a prolonged stay at Waupun.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—The Post Dispatch publishes a long letter from New York, giving an interview with Edison, held three days ago, in which he says he will have part of New York illuminated with the electric light within two months.

How often persons have been annoyed by burrs clinging to their dress or clothing, and how seldom have they, when cleaning them, given it a thought that Burdock Root is the most valuable blood cleanser and purifier known, and is sold by every druggist under the name of Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1.00.

Where machinery is used the Drew Oil Cup will save 50 per cent. of oil. Write for circular. Borden, Sellick & Co., Chicago, Ill.

FIRE RECORD.

WINNEPEG, May 1.—Dundee Block, at Main street and Portage avenue, burned to-day. Loss, $70,000, distributed among a number of occupants, some of whom were insured.

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—A fire at Florence, Wis., destroyed four buildings: loss, $21,000.

ARTHUR, Ont., May 1.—The residence of Andrew Fleming was burned this morning. Two children were burned to death. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were seriously burned.

ITACA, N. Y., May 1.—The Washington Glass Works burned this morning. Loss, $50,000; insured for half the amount.

GALESBURG, Ill., May 1.—The Fourth ward school house burned to-day. Loss $15,000.

It works wonders upon the Digestive apparatus. ZOPESA from Brazil, acts as a gentle purgative, cures Dyspepsia, removes languor and low spirits, gives energy and capacity for work. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

DRAGGED HALF A MILE.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 1.—Dora Steinmiz, a German girl employed by George Foreman, the miller of Pleasantville, Marion county, was thrown from a horse on the way home, twelve miles south of that town, and her foot catching in the stirrup, was dragged half a mile. Her face and body were terribly lacerated, and every stitch of clothing stripped from her body except her shoes and stockings. She still lives, in a very precarious condition. It was her seventeenth birthday.

DEPARTURE OF MILITARY.

CHEYENNE, W. T., May 1.—The Third Cavalry, under General Brackett, consisting of twelve companies, leave Wyoming to-morrow for the Indian war in Arizona. Special dispatches say it is probable that the White River Utes will create trouble over the killing of Chief Jack. The removal of the Third Cavalry to Arizona lessens the protection of settlers in Wyoming and Colorado.

The Cheerfulness of Old Age.

You don't feel the horizon pressing you too closely. You have space in which to stretch yourself. A little will do, if your mind be healthy. Nor is the look-out, in fact, so much shorter. All you have had of life is so much saved out of the fire. You never could count certainly on a day ahead at any time, however early in your life. And you are in no worse condition now. The possible time before you is much less, doubtless. But you hope for the best. You look for the best. There is better, doubtless. But you know what I mean. The content of wise and good folks, free from morbid and transient moods, has concluded that long life is a blessing. It cannot be the greatest, or it would not be denied to so many. It may be a kindly permitted illusion that it is a blessing at all; but it is well the illusion is permitted, if it be one. And as for the averages, we disregard all such calculations in our own case. You fancy yourself to be such an exceptional being that you look most likely for exceptional length of life, too. I have remarked this decidedly in men who in fact are wiser than men in general. Besides that, the short outlook content; that we can enjoy the golden and brown autumn leaves without intruding thoughts of the bleak, wet winter boughs; besides the fact, too, that transience sometimes adds a singular enjoyment as well as a beauty which is all its own; the healthy mind lives in a pervading atmosphere rather than a defined conviction that the end is not so near after all, and cheerfully calculates on a long time yet. A little while since talking with a friend who has been lifted high, my dear friend said something implying that they both must soon bid the beloved world and the beautiful surroundings farewell. "Not at all," said the energetic and hearty pillar of the State. "I look forward please God for another twenty years." And Brown was corrected. For even after the twenty years the pillar of the state would only be seventy-four; and therefore count on an abridgment of honor and usefulness? Brown was six months the younger; but by being overworked and worried he had got into the way of mistily thinking that about three or four years would see the last of him. And, indeed, there are those who early in September feel as though the winter were upon them; and who at thirty-three talked of themselves as old. But this is wrong as well as depressing. Some cannot help it. John Foster was a great man; but his ways of thinking on most matters were essentially morbid. Never more so than in the previous fashion in which he anticipated needlessly soon the winter which he specially dreaded. "I have seen a fearful sight to-day," he once said. "I have seen a butternut." He could not enjoy the present greenness and warmth for intrusive fears of the coming cold and desolation. He was wrong, far wrong. You don't blame him, you pity him. But, body and mind, he never knew brisk health. There are a great many thoughts which it is quite fit that we resolutely put away. A mischievous mortal, desiring to overlook the blink of sunshine in which others are rejoicing, does not need to tell them anything that is not true. You remember Mr. Croaker and his frequent sentiment: "Heaven send we all be as well this day six months!" Then a shadow would fall on the faces of middle-aged folks; as when a meddling idiot asks them what they are to make of their boys. Those things are thought of quite often enough, be sure, without the idiot's opportunity to interfere.

Lions Loose in a Theater.

Mr. George Sanger, having engaged with Mr. Paul Clevie, the proprietor of the Paris St. Martin Theater, Paris, to supply eight lions, two dromedaries, and two elephants, to appear in the "Bich aux Bois." The lions were brought to the theater. At 9 the next morning, the man in charge of the elephants, with an expression of terror in his countenance, said in a whisper to Mr. Sanger, "The lions are out." "Well," said Mr. Sanger, "Why don't you catch them? Where's the keeper, Macomo?" "Don't know, sir," Mr. Sanger, taking an oil lamp with a wretched, smoked globe, went on to the stage, and, after walking about for some time, was heard to say, "Oh, there you are, are you?" and, looking over a trap in the stage, he saw the big lion, Tiebhorne, and presently the other two came prowling by. "All right, I will soon have them," said Mr. Sanger. At this the big lion threw up his head and opened his ponderous jaws, showing his great tusks. Mr. Sanger took a heavy whip used by the elephant keeper, and with this in one hand and the lamp in the other, dashed into the cellar. The lions instantly dashed off. Presently he was heard to say: "It's all right. I have one of them." Mr. Sanger came up on the stage, and said the other two were concealed among the broken timber and waste at the bottom of the cellar, and that he would have them directly. Several tried to persuade him to forego any further attempt. "What am I to do?" he answered; "I have engaged to bring eight lions here to appear in the 'Bich aux Bois,' and not to roam about the theater." At this moment something was heard to fall. Mr. Sanger, leaving without saying a word, went into the cellar again, and after searching in vain for the lions for some time, discovered that they had got into the bottom cellar. They had fallen a depth of twenty feet. "All right, I have got them, come on, come on," cried Sanger. Thinking the lions were secured, some friends descended, but they were only caught up in a corner. "Bring up those shutters, be quick," was the next heard; and seeing such bravery shown by Mr. Sanger, they plucked up courage, carried up several shutters and hemmed them in. Then the cages from which they had so recently broken fled lowered, the capture was easily effected. The hunt was carried on in the most calm and collected manner possible, and proved beyond all doubt that there was not the slightest fear on the part of Mr. George Sanger, the modern lion-hunter.

Teaching the Young Idea.

"Attention, children!" said the principal entering the classroom, followed by a stranger; "this gentleman will ask you a few questions in arithmetic. He is the Superintendent of schools at Mule Gulch, Nevada, that great Western State of which you have so often heard."

Which his name was Dodd," said the visitor, and mounting the platform, he drew a bow-knife from his pocket and tapped for attention on the desk. "We will now proceed to do a sum in simple addition. A gentleman who had a head on him from last night met another gentleman in the Dew Drop Inn, who put a head on him. How many heads did that gentleman have on him?" "Three!" "Now you're talking. We will next proceed to subtraction. Wall-eyed Bob had five fingers on his left hand (including his thumb) when he judiciously called Buckskin Joe a jumping mule. Buckskin Joe drew his eleven-inch toothpick, and the bar-keeper subsequently swept up two fingers. How many fingers had Wall-eyed Bob left?" "Three!" "You're right, and I've $500 here in this little pocket-book that says you are."

"We generally do these sums in apples or other domestic fruit," said the principal, timidly.

"Quite right, quite right," said the gentleman from the far West, "but my plan is universally admitted to be more national—more patriotic. It was criticised some at our last convention at Gallows Forks, but a majority favored it, and the gentleman who opposed it walks with a crutch yet. Now then, kids, hump yourselves for a problem in multiplication and addition. A gentleman held a full social game of back-three nines and two sevens. How many spots were on the cards?" "Forty-one!" "Surely! Mister, your class is no slouch of a class at arithmetic. I will just give the kids one more—an easy one: Five hoss thieves had operated for five days before the vigilantes hung them, and had stolen twenty-eight head of stock. How many hosses a day did each hoss thief steal?" "One and three-twenty-fifths of a hoss." "Right, and if any man says you ain't don't take it from him, if he's as big as a grain of cator. Now, mister man, trot out your class in moral philosophy."

A Significant Fact.

The cheapest medicine in use is THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL, because so very little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the throat or chest, or for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

Not That Kind of a Donkey.

A coon has arisen between Mr. and Mrs. Fitznoodle, one of the most respectable families in Austin. One day last week a Mexican donkey was run over in the outskirts of Austin, and killed by a freight train on the International Railroad. Next morning, just as Mr. Fitznoodle was about to start down town, his wife threw her arms around his neck and said: "Dear Abner, promise me not to go near the railroad track. How can the engineer distinguish between you and a donkey, in time to stop the train?"—Texas Siftings.

Commercial Statistics.

Uncle Nace and Jim Webster got into a dispute on Austin avenue. Uncle Nace is one of the wealthiest colored property owners in Austin, and puts on style accordingly, while Jim Webster is comparatively poor.

"I can sell you out forty times before you can sell me out one time," said Nace pompously. "Of course you kin. Who am gwine to make me an offer for such a wretched, knock-kneed, goggle-eyed mule as you is?"—Texas Siftings.
